Introduction

The proposed hotel booking system is designed to enhance the reservation process for both guests and hotel management. This system will provide a user-friendly platform for customers to browse available rooms and make bookings conveniently through online sites. The hotel booking system aims to deliver a seamless and reliable booking experience that ensures customer satisfaction while boosting the management's productivity.

Problem statement

Many hotels, especially small and medium-sized ones, struggle to handle reservations because of antiquated systems or manual procedures. Overbooking, a bad client experience and inefficiencies in room distribution and payment processing are frequently the outcomes of these problems. These issues are made worse by the absence of a centralized platform for handling reservations and customer information, which restricts company expansion and client retention.
